

Regus attends 15th consecutive MIPIIM with confidence in future growth in global outsourced workplaces market

Regus, the world's largest provider of outsourced workplaces is participating for the 15th consecutive year at MIPIIM, the world property market which takes place in the Cannes Palais des Festivals, France, from 11 to 14 March, 2008.

In order to meet the growing demand for flexible workspaces the Regus Group is expanding again this year, creating stronger national networks and opening in new countries and cities where they are not currently represented.

Regus has recently opened business centres in cities and countries such as Abu Dhabi, Gurgaon, Hong Kong, Johannesburg, Luxembourg, Moscow, Paris, Sharjah, St Petersburg, Vienna and Zwolle.

This geographic expansion is part of the Regus strategy to offer to its 400 000 clients a world of business which allows them to work without boundaries, when, where and how they want, across a global footprint of 950 locations, in 400 cities and 70 countries.

It also gives Regus' clients the opportunity to locate at the world's most strategic business addresses, whether city centres, business districts, airports or locations close to where people live. With over 35 years experience in developing and managing flexible working environments and business support, Regus offers a full range of workplaces that are designed to suit the needs of companies of all sizes, allowing them to focus on their core business.

Mark Dixon, founder and CEO of Regus said today: "We are always on the lookout for new office space and MIPIIM, as the biggest European market place in the property calendar, is an important "rendezvous".

"We are confident that this year's event will be as busy as ever because demand for flexible outsourced offices remains high with many companies trying our services for the very first time."
